HISTORY OF REDDING FAMILY

Prepared by W. F. Redding
- September 1940.

History has been handed down that 3 Redding brothers of Scot-Irish descent came to the Eastern Shore of North Carolina. Two went to Georgia and a third, after living in Pasquotank County for awhile, came to this section - then known as Orange County. This was some time before the Revolutionary War. The third brother acquired land on Cedar Fork Creek, part of which is owned by W. F. Redding, Sr., located three miles from Asheboro.

This third brother, Joseph, had 3 sons - John, Jonathan, and Thomas; two daughters - Truelove (married a Sand) and Nancy (Rich).

John, the son of Joseph, had the following children: Jessie, Michael, Joseph, John, Thomas, Betsy (Plummer), Jane (Tadlock) and one daughter who died young, named Dorcas; Sally (Steed), and Martha (not married).
